

KLAN WINS FIRST TEST IN OKLAHOMA SENATE

KILL RESOLUTION DEMANDING ENFORCEMENT OF SPONGE LAW

SHARP DEBATE PRECEDES VOTE ON RESOLUTION

Half Of Board Members "Will Take Drink," Supervisor Charges

LOSES BY 26 TO 13 VOTE

Insinuations And Charges Hurling By Supervisors During Debate

A resolution introduced in the county board by Supervisor H. M. Culbertson enjoining the district attorney, sheriff and all peace officers of the county rigidly to enforce the prohibition laws, touched off a bomb in the county board Saturday and opened a channel for the pentup sentiment of a number of supervisors—but failed in its purpose, unless the purpose was merely to place the county board members upon record. The resolution was turned out by a vote of 26 to 13.

The ordinance had been made the regular order of business for 10:30 Saturday morning. During the debate on the question insinuations were hurled in rapid succession.

Supervisor William Beck of Seymour made the statement that 50 percent of the members of the board "would take a drink if they could get it."

Anton-Jansen, president of Little Chute, declared that he drank more liquor since 1918 than before that date.

This statement, in the opinion of F. J. Harwood, was a "confession of criminality," and one "that should be dealt with accordingly."

If the Ku Klux Klan were above board and not conducted secretly, Supervisor Culbertson, author of the bill, said he would be tempted to join such an organization and help stop liquor traffic.

This statement aroused the ire of Supervisor A. J. McClellan who declared this was in itself a defiance of the constitution.

Among the members who voted against the resolution, some of them did so because they felt that the resolution implied that the county officers were not enforcing the prohibition laws to the best of their ability, while those that voted for the resolution did so because they felt that the officers desired the backing of the board. John Tracy, who voted with the nays, said he hoped that this vote would not be construed as if the members were in favor of enforcement of prohibition.

Introducing the resolution as challenge to the sentiment of the county board, Supervisor Culbertson asked for a roll call on the measure. This method of voting was at first disparaged by Supervisor Anton-Jansen, but later supported by him with the declaration "that he was not afraid to go on record."

Negro Lives With 8 Shot In His Skull

By Associated Press
New Orleans—The eight buckshot which drilled holes through the skull of Pleasant Miles, La Fourche parish Negro desperado, will not kill him, surgeons at Charity hospital announced Saturday.

Miles killed a Negro near Thibodaux last week and in a fight with a posse seriously wounded three white men, and himself was shot and left for dead.

An X-ray photograph of Miles' skull shown here Saturday shows that four buckshots penetrated the skull on the left side, near the back, three over the left eye and one just above the bridge of the nose.

The posse left Miles for dead at the scene of the encounter, took the wounded to Thibodaux and sent a truck for his body. When the truck arrived Miles was found sitting up and calling out that he surrendered.

BANK KNOCKERS HIT BY BANKERS

By Associated Press
Evanston, Ill.—Melvin Traynor, president of the First Trust and Savings bank of Chicago and head of the Illinois Bankers' association declared Friday night:

"Any demagogue who tries to stir the people against the banks of this country should be driven from the country or the political pension he holds. Why, Wall Street and LaSalle Street would cease to be, as was described as a man with a strong sense of political responsibility and great capacity."

Mr. Traynor spoke before the semi-annual banquet of the Kappa-Kappa bankers' association.

"They say the election of such men as Brodhead and Magnus Johnson marks the start of a new party, a movement that in time would change the entire form of our government, but I'm not worried that the United States will go Communist."

Real Fight For Democratic Nomination Hinges On Ability To Swing Officeholders Of War-time

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1923, by the Post Pub. Co.
Washington—The McAdoo effort to win the Democratic nomination for the presidency is taking on the proportions of a real campaign.

M. Bruce Claggett, formerly private secretary to Mr. McAdoo when he was secretary of the treasury, and later private secretary to the director general of the railroads, has resigned his position with the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, and passed through here Friday enroute to Los Angeles to take charge of the political correspondence of his former chief.

In almost every state of the Union the McAdoo supporters are planning to establish either a headquarters or a campaign unit to capture the delegates to the next convention. The victory of the McAdoo forces in South Dakota is pointed to as evidence that the campaign is on in earnest and that from now on the fight for the nomination will be waged with all the vigor of an electoral contest. No longer as there any doubt where Mr. McAdoo himself stands. He will take occasion to comment on public questions from time to time and demonstrate his right to assume the leadership of his party.

GET EARLY START

The beginning of the campaign at this early date is due to the fact that delegates will have to be pledged a long time in advance and if the McAdoo supporters do not win them some other candidate will.

The real fight for the Democratic nomination, however, does not turn upon what will happen in the primaries or even on the respective merits of the various candidates as related to present day issues. It turns on the ability of the different managers to capture the Wilson strength in the party which, by the way, has nothing to do with Wilsonism or the league of nations or any other particular policies of the former president. It means the strength of the former officeholders.

Office Girls Too Eager To Wed, Claim Of Labor Union Organizers

Clerks Fear To Offend Chiefs

BY GEORGE BRITT

Chicago—All women office workers expect to get married in a year or two.

All men expect to get the boss' job. These are major obstacles to overcome in bringing "white collar workers" into the organized labor movement, according to Edward Hughes, secretary of the Chicago Office Employees' Union, the largest office workers' local in the country.

Marie Erhardt, his office secretary, is ready to verify the statement. But are they downcast at the difficulty? They'll tell the whole world "Not."

THEY'RE OPTIMISTIC

With the promise of backing from the American Federation of Labor for a national extension campaign, they are looking forward to the day when the bookkeeper and the clerk shall drive down to work in a Rolls-Royce just the same as the janitor does.

Exaggerations aside, the campaign is to be waged this fall to develop the office workers' union into a serious factor in business instead of a mere vocal minority.

"Those two hopes in the hearts of men and women make it hard to arouse interest in unions," says Hughes. "The girls figure they are working only temporarily. The men fear anything which might antagonize the management and defer promotion. Then they think they have social superiority by being non-union."

"The queezing which the office worker gets between manual labor and employers will bring him around to organization. The trades are unionized and are getting higher wages. The heads of business are organized and are getting larger profits. The cost of living soars. But the office worker, without effective protest, has to take what may be offered."

CITY HALL ORGANIZED

"Most of our 1300 members in Chicago work in the city hall. About 300 are women. When the cost of living started up, the unorganized clerical force here asked for a raise. They couldn't even get a hearing from the finance committee. They don't get everything they ask for, of course, but they are listened to and conditions have improved."

The "white collar" unions at present have no national organization, but are chartered directly by the American Federation of Labor. The plan of campaign is to enlarge the work in cities where there is already a foothold, seeking to unionize offices of private industries in which the members of former Governor Jack Walton's Oklahoma secret service have been suddenly deranged and freed.

"And the day is coming," says Miss Erhardt, "when the young man going to see his girl will have to show his card—not a vulgar, but union."

Wisconsin's 30 yard line. Chicago was penalized 15 yards for roughness. Taft gained a yard on a right end run. Harris broke through for three yards, going through right tackle. Williams picked off two yards going around left end placing the ball on Chicago's 45 yard line.

Pyott punted 35 yards and Chicago was penalized 15 yards for roughness in the receiver.

Taft gained two yards around left end and Williams added four more, through right tackle. Harris made it first down on a plunge through right tackle. Williams was thrown for a loss of an attempted left end run. A pass, Taft to Williams was good for a yard. Taft threw a pass to Harris for a 13 yard gain.

After Williams was stopped on a line plunge, Taft broke through center for three yards, placing the ball on Chicago's 35 yard line. Harris ripped through left guard for six yards.

Harris added three yards more, going through right tackle, giving Wisconsin first down. Taft gained four yards around left end. Harris picked off a yard, going through right guard placing the ball on Chicago's 21 yard line.

Harris grabbed off four yards through right guard. Taft broke through for first down, placing the ball on Chicago's 17 yard line. Barnes broke through and stopped Williams on next play.

Harris also was stopped. Pyott intercepted a pass on Chicago's ten yard line, running the ball back to the 27 yard line before he was upset.

John Thomas gained a yard around left end. John Thomas ripped through center for eight yards.

Defeat Of Measure Means Upper House Will Be Unable To Act Effectively
DENOUNCE RADICAL HATRED
Enid Senator, Protestant, Defends Catholics And Jews From Attack

By Associated Press
Oklahoma City—Ku Klux Klan supporters emerged victorious in their first test of strength in the state senate when the upper house voted late Friday to strike from the proposed anti-Klan measure under consideration, a section which would have compelled secret organizations in Oklahoma to file their membership lists for public inspection.

Proponents of the section declared that by its defeat the senate would fail to enact anti-Ku Klux Klan legislation with "teeth in it," although they took some consolation in the passage of a provision requiring officers of secret organizations to register their names with county authorities.

The action on the membership clause came at the close of a day filled with dramatic debate in which members of both factions came out openly in support of their convictions, precipitating verbal clashes unequalled in bitterness during the present extraordinary session.

Enemies of the Klan denounced it as being founded upon racial hatred and religious intolerance, and described it as a "revival of the organization of 'reconstruction' days," which was solemnly condemned. Its friends defended it as a righteous organization upholding "law and order in the midst of crime."

KNOWS INTOLERANCE

Senator Harry Glasser of Enid, who led the attack on the Klan as the organization for its operations under the hood and declared an impassioned speech that "the question of religious intolerance has no place in democracy."

"I wonder," he asked, "if the Jew and Catholic buddies of some of our own senators here, giving their full measure of devotion in the mud and blood of France, thought that in five years their fathers and mothers would be called un-American?"

More than half of the army commanded by Washington and Lafayette at the birth of the republic were Roman Catholics, the Enid senator declared. He himself is a Protestant.

Announcing that at the beginning of Friday's session he had been warned that a certain organization would "take care of him" if he did not change his tactics, the Enid senator declared that "was a small matter," and added, in the course of the reply to a personal attack upon him by a member of the opposing faction in the senate.

"I have no fear that a vote cast for the perpetuity of American institutions will mean my political downfall."

Chief of the Klan defenders was Senator Wash Hudson of Tulsa, majority floor leader, who declared that the Klan is an agency of law and order and that much of its effectiveness is gained from its secret membership.

They told the deputy mayor, whom they were to bury, that they were going to take the grave and when they failed to arrive at a home at the designated hour, a search of them. ACQUIT YOUTHS OF DANCE FATALITY

By Associated Press
Washington, Wis.—Five young men, who were tried in Circuit court here on a charge of causing the death of John Butkowski during a fight at a dance last night, were last Friday cleared of all blame for the tragedy.

The state charged that Butkowski died of a broken neck, received when he was picked from a second floor balcony during the fight. Oliver Cook, Everett McCulloch, Wallace McCulloch, William Felt and Albert Smith were the men on trial.

Before the case went to the jury, Judge G. N. Risjord advised a motion by the defense, striking out the murder count against the five youths. That left the prosecution with an accusation of a common law fourth degree manslaughter.

The jury was out nearly six hours before a verdict was returned.

Song Parasite Fined And Sent To U.S. Prison

Sentence of one year and one day in the Leavenworth penitentiary and $2,000 fine was imposed this week in Chicago on W. L. Meeghan, "song parasite," among whose fraud victims was Mrs. Anna Schertz of Kimberly.

Mrs. Schertz had written a song entitled, "Come, Take a Trip in My Airplane," and paid Meeghan $10 to cover the cost of publication. In imposing sentence, Federal Judge Lindsey characterized Meeghan as a parasite preying on the gullible people of small towns.

FISCHER'S APPLETON AMUSEMENT PAGE

Fine Drama of Love, Passion and Superb Gowns is Gloria Swanson's Latest Picture "Bluebeard's 8th Wife"

Novel of theme and treatment, splendidly portrayed by the thorough Paramount screen artist, is a picture offering of the finest grade.

Miss Swanson is a screen star of tremendous popularity and "Bluebeard's 8th Wife" is just the type of a story to further increase her wonderful following.

Gloria is not only popular, but she is a star gifted with talent of the highest order. She has beauty, magnetism and exquisite mimetic powers. Her daintiness and captivating mannerisms, never have been more in evidence in any characterization than in her role Mona de Briac in "Bluebeard's 8th Wife." As a girl who weds an American Bluebeard with a record of seven divorces, and who employs every subterfuge to compel him to divorce her only to discover that she loves her husband, she gives another portrayal of tremendous vitality to the screen.

Sada Cowan, a scenarist of excellent reputation, whose work is well known to Paramount audiences, prepared the screen version of the story "Bluebeard's 8th Wife." As usual, her continuity is practically without a flaw, the story proceeding to its finish without the slightest drag.

Mona de Briac, beautiful daughter of an impoverished Frenchman, is induced against her will to wed John Brandon, an American, so that her family might not starve. She learns that her husband has divorced seven wives and she decides to force him to divorce her. She employs every expedient to that end, some of them more or less risqué, but Brandon loves her devotedly and refuses to release her. Mona, who thinks her husband believes her to have been unfaithful to him, is torn by remorse and seeks to rehabilitate herself in his good graces—a task which his love for her renders easy. Mona learns at length that she loves her husband and both are happy.

This picture will exert a powerful appeal to lovers of motion pictures. The treatment of the story will equally delight the debonair as well as matron, while men will enjoy the drama and thrills which accompany the development of the story. Gloria's gowns are gems of the modiste's art and never has she been seen to finer advantage sartorially than in "Bluebeard's 8th Wife."

"BLOSSOM TIME" Establishes New Attendance Records

One of the most positive proofs of the universal popularity of the opera "Blossom Time" based on the life of Franz Schubert and with Schubert's own music woven into the score, which Messrs. Schaubert will present at Fischer's Appleton Theatre in the very near future, is the fact that this production has broken attendance records in practically every theater in which it has been seen this season.

Theaters throughout the country report that for the first time in years every seat has been sold. It is probably the first time since the days of "The Merry Widow" that a touring attraction has consistently played houses in which every single seat has been occupied.

The great popularity of "Blossom Time" which ran for two solid years in New York, will undoubtedly establish it as the most successful musical attraction ever sent out of New York. Already it is estimated that more persons have paid to see "Blossom Time" than any other play ever produced in this country. It is the most successful production ever launched by the Schubert organization and when one takes into account the fact that the Schuberts are the biggest producers in the world, it is easy to believe that the triumph claimed for this production is based on fact and not mere fancy.

"THE GREAT CYCLOPS" Headlines Vaudeville Bill at Fischer's Appleton Tomorrow

"The Great Cyclops," the super-marvel making his first American appearance, is a magnificent specimen of manhood and reminds one of the conquering gladiator of Ancient Rome. He is of commanding stature, beautifully formed and shows phenomenal muscular development. This modern Hercules, who is as handsome as a matinee idol or screen favorite, has a program of feats of strength that will amaze and move his audience to profound admiration.

Among other things he bends a heavy iron bar with his teeth and then bends the bar around his forearm into a spiral as the average man would a piece of rubber. Cyclops drives a inch nails through an oak plank with his bare fists. The modern Sampson snaps a heavy chain with ease of an average person breaking a piece of twine.

The big feature of the act is when Cyclops lies on his back, on a plank studded with sharp pointed nails and holding a heavy anvil on his chest allows two husky men to pound on the anvil with 5 lb sledge hammers.

While the act presented by Frank and Clara LaTour, comprising a lot of funny capers, novelties and bubbles may be fittingly described by the word "Novelty" the offering lives up to every expectation from that and all other stand points. As a most entertainingly amusing act Frank LaTour is a splendid pantomimic comedian who through-out the action of the offering keeps busy stirring up mischievous stunts that make audiences hilariously happy, drawing attention to Clara LaTour, who is exceedingly droll and clever in manipulating bubbles and juggling all sorts of objects.

Two of vaudeville's latest recruits from the musical comedy field, Marie Rich and George Banata, with ingratiating personalities and splendid singing voices are winning the affections of vaudeville patrons. They call their sketch "Musical Comedies" and have a smart routine of patter and well chosen musical repertoire. The big feature is a burlesque on Geo M Cohan's American idea, and it is proving a sensation in the volume of laughs received at every performance is any criterion.

It is said that George Morton secures more amusement from his silent partner the humble ukele than would be the case if this instrument were really a human too. When he struts out upon the stage realistically attired as the village cut-up and starts his comical singing, the trusty his act is rich in entertaining variety. Dashington's Animals Novelty is the most entertaining animal act in vaudeville today. Imagine cats and dogs working in perfect harmony. The animals are trained in a wonderful manner and will be the most surprising novelty that would attendants at vaudeville entertainment in their careers as theatergoers.

Sense and nonsense act with eccentricities will be a make this bill one long to be remembered by patrons of Fischer's Appleton Theatre. As an added attraction for the matinee patrons Manager Ho'ah has arranged, through the courtesy of Eastman Kodak Co. and The Ideal Photo Shop, to show one of the most interesting motion picture subjects that has yet been put on. "A Trip Through Film Land" is not a Hollywood picture but is purely an educational subject that will acquaint picture lovers of the vast industry producing the raw film material on which our entire motion picture entertainment depends.

Fisk O'Hara

"Every time the man opens his mouth" said a migrant from County Mayo as he left Fischer's Appleton last night, "out comes a laugh or a tune." He was speaking of Fiske O'Hara. Fiske also was there last night.

Appleton has seen the smiling Fiske a good many times, but never has Appleton seen him so jovial and it has been many seasons since his songs were as tuneful as "Pretty Molly Malone" and "Jaunting Down to Kerry," and the others he sings in "Jack of Hearts."

It's a whimsical thing—"Jack of Hearts"—exactly the thing that is expected of Fiske O'Hara and probably he never appeared here in anything Appleton fans liked as well. It has warmth and color, the romance and the humor which blend perfectly into a broad path down which the amiable star ambles blithely and lightly, heartily, pausing now and then to give the audience less than enough of his melodious voice.

WHEN AMERICANS FIGHT THEIR OWN FUEL WAR

Thousands of tons less coal will be consumed by heating plants in the United States where slight changes in construction have worked great fuel economies. Many local home owners are turning from coal to oil, simply taking out of the old fuel fixtures of their furnaces and installing the cheap and effective distillate heaters now on sale. Electric power originating at dams is being substituted in plant after plant for private power machinery requiring mineral fuel.

These are local phases of a trend against the use of coal which appears to be nationwide. In the last six months seventy-one mines have been shut down in Illinois, and the production of that state has fallen from a normal of 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 tons down to 4,000,000. So many Illinois mines have never been closed in a similar period. To some extent competition of non-union mines is a factor but time was when the public took all the coal that both types of mines cared to produce and at prices set by the operators to suit themselves.

There can be only one lesson for the coal producers from the present public revolt—they have gone too far. And producers include the intermediate parties in transit between mine and retailer as well as the mine interests.

It may be that anthracite operators will persist in passing on to the public in spite of inordinate profits of their own, every wage increase such as that recently settled by the Pinchot arbitration. But they may take warning from the present condition in the bituminous fields that the public finds ways and means in the end in order to defend and revenge itself. The Black Diamond coal trade publication, reports that "smokeless coal is having trouble holding its own: while coke is wobbling in the face of unsettled conditions and bargain purchases of soft coal." Anthracite will not forever hold out against the attack of a demand boycott which is not only turning from one type of coal to another, but away from coal entirely and satisfactorily.

Mr. Pinchot's conference and all Mr. Pinchot's thirty governors will probably accomplish less in the way of restoring honest and reasonable coal prices than the public is accomplishing for itself, with the aid of modern substitutes. This new striving for fuel independence has gone far; it has infinite opportunities ahead of it.

BANNING THE JAPANESE

Japanese and American attempts to get along side by side despite the widely varying standards of living of the two civilizations have not succeeded in this country. Americans residing in Japan bring wealth to that nation, spend freely, and compete only in the higher reaches of finance—never in labor or agriculture. The reverse naturally is not true. Japanese immigrants with their rice diet and habits of unbelievable self-denial necessarily embitter Americans who not only cannot compete on such a scale but would not if they could.

The supreme court's decision upholding California's alien land law even to the extreme of denying the right of a Japanese to own stock in a corporation owning land will probably serve as the last word in the hopeless struggle of west coast Japanese to obtain equal rights which in view of their racial habits would have been licenses to break down our American standards. To some degree a nation must protect itself against industrial inroads. The products of other cheap-living peoples we may regulate by tariffs; the Japanese must no longer be permitted to evade the tariff by establishing his bit of Japan upon our own soil.

The southern European business man in this country often lives in quarters which would be impossibly cramped and unkept for the American of the same class, but objections are never raised because he holds to branches of business for which he is peculiarly adept and in which Americans are not disposed to dispute his sway. Much southern European immigration has been accepted with open arms for the very reason that it maintains life happily at an outlay far below our own, thereby furnishing a certain supply of inexpensive common labor. But the Japanese met us upon our own ground, in agriculture and in business, and there was and always would be constant friction.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Perhaps it is because the United States has gone into the war risk insurance business on a tremendous scale that proponents of old age pensions are redoubling the vigor of their propaganda in the United States. If the government can handle the greatest insurance organization within the boundaries of its authority, it is reasonable to expect that it might take care of people over sixty, for instance, the premiums coming in the form of general taxes imposed on some actuarial plan.

Offhand it seems a beautiful notion for the government to keep the wolf from the door of its citizens after they have passed a certain point in life determined upon as the average age of retirement. Sparing the aging man and woman their worry about the future appears to be a fine public investment. But students who have gone into the question somewhat more deeply point out that it is exactly this worry which adds to the thrift, enterprise, ambition and independence of a people. Government does, they say, unquestionably spare the recipients worry; but they also pauperize.

A dash of worry for the future is a most important factor in human life; a sane and proud and reasonable "worry" that some day others will have to care for us if we are not foresighted enough to lay by in store. Some observers who have watched old age pensions under trial in England believe that human nature to some extent overcomes this objection. Many people work just as hard, so as to have something beside the dole. Families or landlords do not throw old folk upon the government, but are glad to take them and care for them with the dole as ample payment for the keep. Old people, in other words, actually feel more independent than they might without the dole.

But it does not evade the criticism to say that people have these illusions about themselves. If old age pensions are paid out of premiums like old age insurance, endowment policies and the like, each person getting out of what he put in with interest—in other words, if the plan were a government effort to stimulate saving—nothing could be more worth while. But to place the scheme on a general tax basis distributing doles to hundreds of thousands who have paid and saved almost nothing, out of funds received from other thousands, is to enter a wedge for all sorts of socialistic schemes confiscating the property of one class for another.

Old age pensions in that form are the sheep's clothing of socialism.

GOOD HUNTING

(After re-reading Kipling's Jungle Book)

Once more I have threaded the jungle through
With like the Bagheera and fat Baloo.
And heard wolves talking, one to another,
Old Akela and lean Gray Brother.
I have trailed Shere Khan to his evil lair,
I have heard his roar on the trembling air,
I have stood in the heart of the tangled wild
With Man-Cub Mowgli, the jungle child.

"Good Hunting! Good Hunting!"—the jungle call
Still holds me bound in the open trail.

Oh, I have wandered the trails again
Through clinging creepers, by stream and fen,
Where gray ages clamber for vain life
Down to the watery holes to drink.
For the spell of the jungle is over me,
As strong as ever it used to be.
When I, a youngster, was first beguiled
By tales of Mowgli, the jungle child.

"Good Hunting! Good Hunting!"—the jungle call
Still holds me bound in the open trail.

Health Talks

Noted Physician And Author

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writer's names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

SEBORRHEA OLEOSA

I do fondly hope that the readers have by this time begun to think that the paper ain't what they used to be. It is no small matter abolishing such a deeply grounded fallacy as the popular one that the human skin has a phenomenal set of pores each equipped with a little trap door which opens and shuts almost at the whim of fate, and that it is technically speaking all off with the poor chap who happens to go out somewhere while his pores are all open through some accident to the trap door machinery. But with the right inspiration and termination a great deal may be accomplished in this direction. I've been engaged in this crusade only a few years and to date I have abolished the following:

1. Colds.
2. Nervous breakdown.
3. The rheumatiz.
4. Marking babies.
5. Uric acid.
6. Biliousness.
7. Pathy (B-I in the blank yourself).
8. The climate.
9. Overwork.

I always did hate to hear of people succumbing to No. 1 or No. 9; so I put a stop to it. Rouse up, now, folks, and give ear. We're coming to the medicine. You know I always reserve that till the very last; then, quite likely, discover I haven't room left to give it. I don't give much medicine here, but such as I do give is real medicine. It requires a little room to administer real medicine as anybody knows who has ever given a live boy a nice dose of castor oil.

A famous lotion for simple seborrhea, excessive oiliness of the skin or "enlarged pores" is called white lotion; the recipe is: Zinc sulphate, one dram; sulphurated potassium (also called potassa sulphurata and liver of sulphur, one dram; rose water, four ounces.

It is only with with fear and trembling that I venture to print a formula occasionally, for I never can rest quietly for many nights afterward till I see what weird effect the printer gets out of it.

About a teaspoonful of the sulphate of zinc and a teaspoonful of the sulphated potassium is the right amount to four ounces of water or rose water. The rose water kind kills the fragrant aroma of the lotion, though some persons do not object to the odor. This lotion, a yellow grayish white mixture, must be well shaken up each time, just before it is applied. It should be applied by dabbing it on the skin with the fingers, and allowing it to dry on. It may be used each night, each alternative night or in some cases two or three times daily. Wash it off next morning. After a week or two, if it is used frequently, some irritation of the skin may be noticed. If so, set the medicine on the shelf over the sink for a week or two.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Anywhere But Home
Is a T. B. better off to live south, or east than here? Where would you suggest?—Mrs. A. R.
Answer—No. Home is the best place to get well. It would be exceedingly unwise to consider any move unless your physician deems it necessary and you are able to have proper medical care and living conditions in the new home.

Dog Bites Boy: Mother Angry
Can any harm come from my little boy being snapped by a dog that had a wrestle with a dog six months ago that must have been in the first stages of hydrophobia because he went mad right afterward. In fact he never came home again but roved about biting things and when killed and examined was declared to have rabies. I am uneasy for fear the boy should develop something should the dog go mad later, as some people say.

—Mrs. E. D.
Answer—If the dog that bit your boy did not have rabies at the time, there is nothing to worry about. Never mind. The safe and sane course I should advise is this: do not kill the dog, but see that he is confined under the observation of a veterinary for two weeks. If the veterinary reports that the dog remains well for two weeks, shake hands all around and forget it. If the veterinary has any doubt of the dog's condition, kill the dog and have the head examined by the health authorities. Nowadays the Pasteur antirabies treatment can be administered by any physician anywhere, if it is necessary.

More news from Christmas. It will be here December 25. Be sure to mail your packages early so you can get an answer. If you happen to get a present from some one from whom you expected nothing, the proper thing to do is mail him a card saying "I sent you a package a week ago and can't imagine why you have not acknowledged it." That saves you the trouble of buying another for the one that was supposedly lost in the mails.

Farmers whose early cabbage has been rotting should not dispose of it as fertilizer, but should save it for next election campaign to throw at the fellows who say they can better crops and prices by legislation.

Dear Rollo: "Am I not right when I say that your driver of an automobile was bumped off at a roadhouse last night?"

—I. Stickem.

Your letter is absolutely correct except in five particulars:

1. Our automobile is no flivver.
2. Our automobile was not out last night.
3. Our automobile has never been bumped.
4. Our automobile has never been at a roadhouse.
5. We have no automobile.

$2,413 Paid Out In Insurance Each Moment

(From the Insurance Press.)
The immensity of life insurance statistics is too vast for individual comprehension.

Approximately $54,000,000,000 of outstanding life insurance, at the close of 1923, is beyond the average human understanding. So also is the estimated production in 1923 of roundly $12,000,000,000 new insurance. The combined assets of life insurance companies at the end of 1923 will be not far from $10,000,000,000. Few minds can actually judge its reality. Probably the nearest point of contact and comprehension between the public and the business of life insurance is the item relating to distribution of payments to policy holders, in the form of death benefits, matured policies or dividends.

These payments present concrete evidence of the beneficent phase of life insurance and possess a definitely personal application to policyholders brought face to face with the inevitable event in all human lives.

The figure of $12,500,000 representing the aggregated payments to policyholders in the United States and Canada in 1923 naturally divides itself, in analytical minds, into an average monthly payment of more than $104,242,000.

Even the towering figures of assets and outstanding insurance may not be as convincing of the magnitude of life insurance as the simple but startling statement that distribution of the insurance in 1922 was at the rate of $2,413 a minute for every day in the year. In the minute consumed in buying a newspaper, $2,413 is paid by life insurance to somebody! In the five minutes occupied at a boot-black stand more than $12,000 of beneficence is sent somewhere. In the half-hour in the barber's chair, life insurance companies are helping dependents, comforting widows and saving homes by the payment of more than $72,000. Every 10-minute interview spent by an agent represents nearly $25,000 of life insurance beneficence.

It was used as a guiding mark by the aborigines of the plains and mountains. Pathfinders of the French colonies in Canada used it as a landmark, and later military expeditions in the Sioux and Crow Indian country during the Indian wars, directed their march by it. So great was the popular interest in the Devil's Tower that the United States Government, in 1906, pronounced it a national monument, and placed it under the direction of the National Park Service.

MRS. COFFMAN ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sidell, Ill.—"I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side, which was almost unbearable, and I could not even lie in bed. I had been sick for seven years, but not so bad until the last eighteen months, and had become so run-down that I cared for nobody, and I couldn't do my work without help, and the doctors told me that an operation was all there was left. I would not consent to that, so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house, and when my two little girls reach womanhood I intend to teach them to take it. I am never too busy to tell you can use my name and letter to spread the good news of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines."—Mrs. IDA M. COFFMAN, R. B. 2, Sidell, Ill.

CULBERTSON WANTS ANTI-LIQUOR LAW STRICTLY ENFORCED

Greenville Supervisor's Resolution Demands Police Arrest Violators

Strict enforcement of the Volstead act and the Severe prohibition law of Wisconsin is demanded in a resolution introduced in the county board of supervisors by Supervisor H. M. Culbertson.

The resolution was to have come up for consideration Friday, but a large amount of other unfinished business left little time for discussion. Upon motion of Mr. Culbertson, it was made the regular order of business for Saturday.

According to the resolution submitted, the district attorney, sheriff, undersheriff, deputies, and all other peace officers in the county are enjoined to enforce the prohibition laws to the letter.

The report and proposed budget submitted by the county-state road and bridge committee at Thursday session when the sum of $129,465.72 was recommended to be expended on road work during the year 1924, was adopted by the board Friday morning. The appropriations proposed will be included in the report of the finance committee shortly before the close of the session next week.

QUESTIONS DEFICIT
The highway report aroused no criticism except in one particular. Mr. Culbertson questioned whether the highway committee had the authority to make changes in the plans resulting in a deficit of $10,000 in construction of the Greenville-Stephensville road. Chairman P. H. Ryan of the highway committee said that the highway commissioner did not know just what the deficit would amount to, but that $10,000 was proposed to cover the indefinite amount. Extra expense was incurred by using the ribble process on the road.

A representative of the Lloyd-Thomas company of Chicago addressed the county board on a proposition of appraising all county property so as to establish the proper taxable worth. The company has saved many counties considerable money and secured for them better insurance protection by such appraisals. It was brought out.

WANT PATROLED ROAD

A petition for a new patrol road in Ellington was referred to the highway committee with instructions to report in the March session. Reports of the asylum committee, sanatorium committee, county training school, printing committee, agriculture committee, were submitted. Increase in salary of the stenographer of the probate court from $600 to $900 a year, and increase of the salary of the register of probate from $1,000 to $1,200 was requested by Judge John Bottensack, and a resolution therefor introduced by Supervisor Frank R. Appleton of Oneida. The $200 increase for the register of probate is in compensation for her services as court reporter in county court and is in lieu of the customary fees.

MURPHY EDUCATES HIS NAMESAKES

Cambridge, Mass. — Murphy's name that's very old, but heretofore never stood for gold; until one day a Murphy, William Stanislaus, for the clan of Murphy became a Santa Claus.

For by the terms found in his will, each year nine Murphys pay their bills at the Harvard halls of fame, where nine scholars bear his name. It was there in '35 that William F. did graduate, and hence he thought it appropriate the Murphys there to educate.

As a result the years may bring doubt. For instance take the base, about a condition strange, without a ball nine, in the unquestioned very fine composed of Murphys—a Murphy team, of Murphy fan, and Murphy team.

When that time comes, to keep a score, will then be more than a farmer's chore. With a Murphy at home and more to come, how will you know which scored a run?

And on the football seven as well, 'twill be impossible to tell, for whom the crowd begins to cheer, for "Murphy-Murphy," "all you'll hear. And no matter who the hero man, he will belong to the Murphy clan; and each of them, bold and strong, will think to him the cheers belong.

Nobly indeed have the Murphys done; and down below the full list's run, of the scholars here to acclaim, and carry on, the Murphy name:

J. J. Dorchester, Mass.; J. S. Boston, Mass.; R. F. Charlestown, Mass.; G. A. Boston, Mass.; G. S. Concord, Mass.; J. C. Danbury, Conn.; N. B. Augusta, Me.; J. P. Craddock, Va.; and R. J. Spokane, Wash.

And in closing we would say, that we hope there never'll come a day when Mr. Smith, a graduate, shall try this Mister Murphy to emulate.

Everett True Has Swatted 6,000 Pests In Last 20 Years

Six-thousand pests or thereabouts have been swatted—some of them perhaps into oblivion—by the iron fist of Everett True, the militant reformer whose activities are pictured in the Appleton Post-Crescent. Everett has been swatting his iron fist, and his trusty umbrella for going on to 20 years and he isn't showing any loss of vitality. He looks a little older and is a little more corpulent than when he started his praise-worthy task of ridding the world of pests of various degrees, shapes and sexes but his temper hasn't sweetened a particle nor has his zeal abated a iota.

Everett is so well known to the post-Crescent family that his biography is interesting to them. He is the comic creation of A. D. Condo, one of the best known comic artists in the country. Mr. Condo now lives in Berkeley, Calif.

About 1907 Mr. Condo joined the staff of the Newspaper Enterprise association at Cleveland, Ohio to make general comics. It was suggested that Condo produce a weekly series of comics picturing the adventures of a "Truthful James," a man who told the truth regardless of consequences or any consideration of policy, circumstances or convenience. The series made a hit from the start but the name "Truthful James," didn't.

After a little while Everett True was suggested as a better title and it has been Everett True ever since. Under the new name the comic has grown and developed until the character probably is the best known in the country.

There is hardly a pest on the face of the globe that Everett hasn't swatted in his hectic existence. His frazzled-looking but witty wife is the only person that Everett fears and the only one that can get the better of him in argument or in fight.

Condo doesn't consider Everett True as a comic character.

"Rather," he says, "it's a corrective dose, in somewhat capsule form. It may go down pleasantly, while the patient laughs. But after it's down, it has a purpose."

"Also you might say that 'Everett's' is no pictorialization of myself. I never have been a gratuitous pest swatter, though sometimes I've longed to be. I've answered that question by mail so often that I'd be glad to have it generally known the answer's in the negative."

ON THE SCREEN

SURPRISE TWIST THRILLS IN "CONVICT 993"

Irene Castle, celebrated everywhere as the best known woman in America, will be at the New Bijou Theatre Sunday. "Convict 993" is a crook play of the kind that every audience de lights in. The movement is unexpected. Held by the mystery and suspense, the observer has made up his mind that the play can only end in one way—and then discovers that the way in which he expected it to end was wrong after all.

Mrs. Castle, as Roslyn Ayre, has escaped from jail, where she declares she was sent for a crime she was innocent of. She is recognized by a fellow prisoner, who sees in the girl's prosperity an opportunity for blackmail, and who enlists the aid of a gang of clever crooks to carry it out. Roslyn is an easy victim, as she has fallen in love with a wealthy young man who would doubtless run against her if he knew her past. She becomes so deeply enamored that she helps the leader of the gang to double-cross his pals. And then comes the surprise, and a happy ending to the romance.

Mrs. Castle is supported by such star players as Helene Chadwick, Warner Oland and Harry Benham.

"HAUNTED VALLEY"

Suspense is the keynote of "The 19th Day," the tenth episode of Ruth Roland's latest Patheserial, "Haunted Valley," to be shown Sunday at the New Bijou Theatre. The day has arrived when Ruth must either pay the million dollars back to Mallinson, or forfeit the Valley and marry him. Mallinson, however, takes no chances, and puts innumerable obstacles in the girl's path to prevent the final payment. Craig plays a big part in the current chapter, but Mallinson's henchmen beat him at every move and bring about a climax that is as surprising as it is exciting.

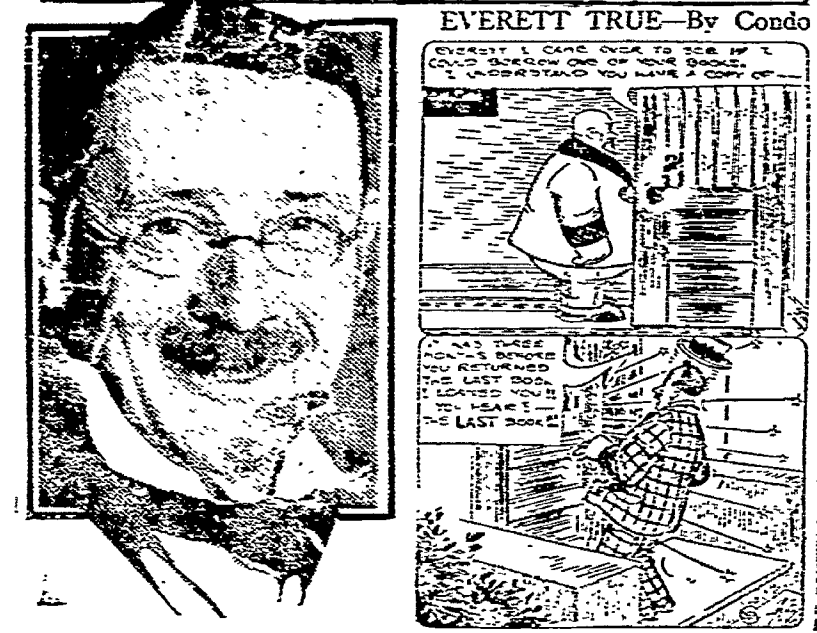

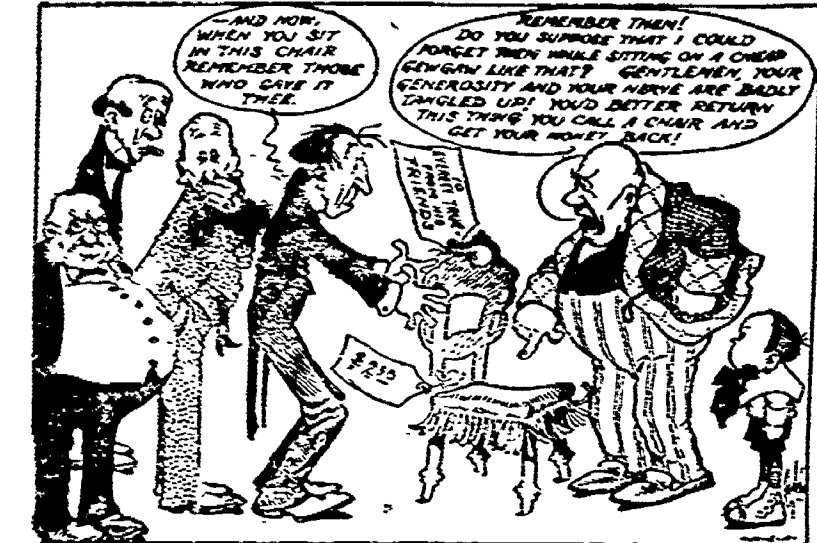

RESCUE OF GIRL GIVES STRONG SCREEN THRILL

The rescue of a girl from death before a swiftly moving train provides a hair-raising thrill in "The Wanderer," the John M. Stahl-Film National picture which is playing at the Elite theatre tonight for the last time. The rescue serves to bring about the reunion of the girl, Myra Hastings, a former servant, with her millionaire husband, from whom she had parted because his snobbish family had made life miserable for her. Mar. Prevost, makes a lovable heroine, while Robert Ellis gives a strong characterization as Elliott Worthington, the rich young husband.

"THE AGE OF DESIRE" IS MIRROR OF LIFE

Frank Borzage, whose fame as a director, genius rests on so secure a foundation as "Humoresque" and "Children of Dust," is the director of "The Age of Desire," a First National picture which is coming on Monday to the Elite Theatre for a 3 day engagement. Like its predecessors, it is a pulsating slice of life, with the searchlight turned onto the inner recesses of the elemental emotions and passions. No one can mirror life as Borzage can, no one can inject the quality of humanism into his productions as

"HIGHBALL" LIKES ALTITUDE BETTER THAN TERRA FIRMA

New York — "Highball," Alreade champion of the sky, who has flown 5000 miles is up in the air when is on the ground.

The flying dog has become so accustomed to the stinging breeze of speed that he is uncomfortable on terra firma.

He accompanies his master, Pilot C. B. D. Collier who makes a billboard of the sky, on all his jaunts to earth words in space with a smoking pencil.

"There is just room enough for the both of us in the single-seater biplane," said Collier, "and 'Highball' is a lot of company. He snuggles close when we make steep turns and long, rapid dives. Then when it is over and we are again flying on the level he looks up into my face, pricks up his ears and smiles."

"Highball" is always the first one in the ship when he scents preparations for a flight. He is always the last one to leave the plane on its return to earth.

into this director. He is able to instill into the members of his cast some of his enthusiasm and genius for fidelity, with the result that his pictures always take front rank among the season's successes.

"The Age of Desire," which is from the pen of Miss Dixie Wilson, and was written while the latter was a member of the cast of the Greenwich Village Follies, is a gripping tale of the cravings of the modern woman. Its theme is one that possesses a powerful appeal and the entertainment is a series of dramatic highlights.

Mary Philbin, William Collier, Jr., and Myrtle Stedman have the leading roles, assisted by Josef Swickard, Frankie Lee, Mary Jane Irving, J. Farrell MacDonald, Bruce Guerin, and Frederick Truesdell.

MUSICAL PROGRAM PRECEDES LECTURE ON VOLSTEAD ACT

Chicago Attorney Argues For Volstead Law Liberalization At Forum

The largest crowd which has attended a People's forum meeting here this season is expected in Lawrence Memorial chapel Sunday evening when Attorney W. D. Bartholomew, noted Chicago lawyer, discusses the Volstead law. His address will be an argument for liberalization of the prohibition enforcement act and will be something of a reply to the talk by Dr. R. E. Minahan of Green Bay last Sunday evening. David S. Rose, former mayor of Milwaukee had been scheduled to make the argument for liberalization of the Volstead act but was unable to come because of illness. Mr. Bartholomew, who has no connection with liquor interests of any sort, consented to come here because it is his personal conviction that the Volstead law should be changed.

A splendid musical program at 7:30 will precede the lecture. Miss Maude Harwood will sing two numbers, "Pastorale" by Veracini, and "Vale," by Kennedy. Miss Margaret Engler will play two organ selections, "Grand Choeur" by Th. Dubois, and Andante from the first sonata by Borowski. No admission is charged to the forum but a collection will be taken to defray the expenses. Inasmuch as the average cost of the Sunday evening meetings is $35, the committee in charge is hopeful that persons attending the lecture will be liberal in their donations.

COUNTY BUILT 11 MILES OF CEMENT HIGHWAY IN 1923

Better Patrol Work On County Roads This Year, Committee Report Says

Eleven miles of concrete pavement, 7 1/4 miles of gravel surfacing, ten miles of shoulder work on other roads and construction of six county and town aid bridges and repair of another bridge are included in last season's construction, according to the resume of highway work submitted to the county board by the county-state road and bridge committee.

Five miles of 9-foot concrete pavement were laid on the Seymour-Appleton and the Bear Creek-New London roads. The holdover projects completed are five miles of 15-foot concrete on the Dale-Medina road and two and a half miles of 16-foot pavement on the Greenville-Stevensville road.

WORK ON SHOULDERS

The highway department completed the shoulders on the Seymour-Appleton road up to the new construction, a distance of seven miles, also one and a half miles of shoulder work on county trunk highway E and one and a half miles of shoulder work on county trunk highway J.

Material for shoulder work on the Seymour-Appleton road was taken from the Schebepit in Grand Chute where there was installed a crusher with bin and drag line attachment. All material was run through the crusher and a 1-inch perforated revolving screen so that material was from 1-inch down to sand.

The bridges completed were the Houaax bridge in Deer Creek; Wege bridge, Ellington; Rugs and Hoffman bridges in Oneida; Spurr bridge in Maple Creek. The Vandevort bridge is contracted for but not completed. The Wolf river bridge on the Hortonville road was repaired with the county paying one third and the towns of Hortonville and Liberty each paying one third.

In their annual tour of inspection over all county highways and the patrol system, the committee found the work in good condition except in a few instances. Construction work was superior to that of previous years. On state and federal roads three patrol teams were used in place of one patrol truck. This method was considered more satisfactory since the sections referred to were mostly of earth and gravel surface and are better handled by teams with additional help from trucks. County patrol was done by man and team. By reducing the mileage for each section, the highway department has been able to cure better patrol work on county roads, it was pointed out.

VOLUNTARY PLEDGES TO SUPPORT CHURCH

Compete By Districts To Pledge Congregational Church Fund On Sunday

Eight men of the First Congregational church will be in charge of the booths in the church parlors from 2 o'clock to 4:30 Sunday afternoon while the voluntary pledge day to raise $21,250 is in progress.

There will be one booth for each parish district so the pledge may be done quickly, and one trustee or other officer is assigned to look after each district. Those in charge will be: First ward south, F. J. Harwood; First ward north, G. E. Buchanan; Second ward south, Elmer Jennings; Second ward north, B. F. Goodrich; Sixth ward, Dr. G. E. Johnston; Third and Fifth wards, T. E. Orison; Fourth ward, F. M. Johnston; rural, George H. Packard.

Completion of districts will be keen to see which will come the nearest to having every member pledged before Sunday midnight. A campaign of publicity has been carried out so all members are informed in detail about the needs and the pledging procedure.

This plan of raising the church finances takes the place of the annual every-member canvass, and has been tried by many churches since used in Appleton. The entire budget is expected to be raised this year by voluntary subscription.

An informal social time will be enjoyed in the church parlors until 4:30 when the choir is to sing the cantata, Maunders' "Song of Thanksgiving."

Attractive Two-Family Home Would Cost $9,580

The wide-spread of the double-house idea proves this kind of dwelling has been long needed and offers a practical solution for the home-building problems of many people.

In the two family house pictured, an unusual number of home-building ideas have been achieved. (A two-family house is one in which each apartment occupies half of each floor, as distinguished from a duplex, in which one is above the other.) It looks like a single large home, an effect wholly to be desired.

It is in the colonial type, which always has been and always will be a standard of good taste. It is of brick construction, which appeals to good judgment, and is appropriate to the type. It is specially designed so that standard materials can be used all the way through in building it.

FIVE ROOMS EACH

The two apartments are identical and include five rooms each—living room, dining room and kitchen (with vestibule, coat closet and refrigerator entry) on the first floor; and one large and one small bedroom with bath and many closets on the second floor.

There is also an attic stair leading to a well-lighted and ventilated

EAT ORPHANAGE MEAL TO HELP NEAR EAST

"Golden Rule Sunday" will be observed on Dec. 2, by a number of Appleton people to help support orphans in the Near East. The International Near East Conference proposed that on Dec. 2 every family eat a dinner as simple as that served every day in the year in the Near East orphanages and the difference between the cost of the simple meal and the usual Sunday dinner be given for support of the orphans. Appleton Red Cross will forward the money that is raised in this manner. President Coolidge, former President Wilson, Herbert Hoover and thousands of other prominent men have promised to serve a Golden Rule dinner on Dec. 2.

TRADE WAR STAMPS FOR NEW U. S. NOTES

War Savings Stamps Issued in 1919 Will Become Payable On Jan. 1

Persons who thought War savings stamps were good investments will be quick to reinvest their 1919 series of war savings stamps in United States treasury savings certificates. The 1919 war savings stamps will become due Jan. 1, 1924.

One can get $1,250 in treasury savings certificates for $1,000 in war savings stamps, or $250 in treasury savings for $200 in war savings stamps, or $125 in treasury savings certificates for $100 in war savings stamps.

Holders of 1919 war savings stamps may take them to the postoffice now and exchange them for treasury savings certificates. Since the stamps are not due until Jan. 1 the new savings certificates will begin to draw interest from Jan. 1. To avoid the congestion that may arise after the first of the year, stamp owners are urged to exchange the stamps now. It was announced by Herman J. French, assistant postmaster.

In increased rate of interest on the treasury savings certificates will be in effect after Dec. 1. The increase is from 4 to 4 1/2 per cent compounded semi-annually. The certificates are issued in denominations of $25, $100, and $1,000, selling at $20, $80 and $800, and maturing in five years. They may be redeemed before that time with interest at 3 1/2 per cent.

The registered war savings stamps are payable at the office of registration. Unregistered stamps are payable at any postoffice. It is expected

STAIR ARRANGEMENT

Notice the excellent arrangement of the main stair, which is so placed that one coming into the living room need not cross it to go upstairs. Among the many desirable features of each apartment are the living room fireplace; the pair of charming corner china closets in the dining room; built-in dresser and work table in the kitchen; outside refrigerator; coat closet, broom closet, and both indoor and outdoor steps to the basement. Upstairs there are three clothes closets, a built-in tray case and medicine cabinet. The clothes chute opens on both floors.

If your needs are for a two-family house this one is an excellent one to choose.

Miss L. Shields Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples

"My trouble began by little red spots appearing under the skin and then broke out with pimples. The pimples were large and red, and later festered. My face was almost covered with them, and they itched and burned causing me to scratch. At night I could not sleep well. The trouble lasted about a year.

I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they afforded relief in a few days. I continued using them and was completely healed after using three boxes of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment." (Signed) Miss Lillie Shields, Star Rt., Grand Vista, Ohio

Some Figures Which May Interest You

This advertisement is a report of progress. It is addressed to our big army of Wisconsin investors, and to the million Wisconsin folks served directly or indirectly by Milwaukee Electric and its associated Companies. It gives you some interesting figures on the current sale of Milwaukee Electric 7% cumulative preferred shares. It is written in the belief that you are all just as fairly interested in the financing of the growth of the community's private owned public services, as you are in the financing of those public services which are publicly owned and supported partly or wholly by taxation.

Well, we began selling a $3,000,000 issue of these shares, with the State's approval, on May 1, 1923. On the same day we placed on sale a $500,000 State-approved issue of Wisconsin Gas & Electric Co. 7% participating preferred shares. Price of both issues was, as always, $100 a share. The Wisconsin Gas & Electric shares were sold out early in August to a thousand buyers, mostly residents of cities and towns served by that Company.

In 158 business days—May 1 to November 10—investors living in 163 Wisconsin cities and towns, and on farms, bought $1,975,600 of the Milwaukee Electric shares: investors in 53 cities and towns in other states (some of them as far away as the Philippine Islands but evidently readers of Wisconsin newspapers), bought $61,300 worth—a total of $2,036,900, a daily average of $12,892. Daily average, both issues $16,056.

There were 3,711 individual and joint buyers of the shares in the 158 business days, a daily average of a little over 22 buyers. Of the 3,711 buyers, 2,553 live in Milwaukee, several hundred more in Milwaukee's suburban cities and villages.

Each year of our home financing, more women buy an interest in the business. Our women investors as a rule favor this business because of its long record of continuous growth and prosperity; because it is a necessary and permanent business; and because strict State regulation of all its affairs, under a State policy protecting investors equally with customers and employees, makes it safer than most other investments. Of the 3,711 who became preferred share owners of the business between May 1 and November 10, 1923, 1,715 were women, 1990 men.

Of the 3,711 buyers, 2,379 paid $1,449,500 cash for their shares; 1,039 bought $587,400 worth on monthly payments—and our six years' experience selling our securities here at home on monthly payments proves more than 90 per cent of those who buy this way will finish their payments, and so get 7% on every dollar invested from the start. Any who do not complete payments get their money back, every dollar of it, on demand, and are that much ahead, but get no interest.

The average investment of the 2,379 who paid all cash was $542; of the 1,039 who bought on payments of $5 down and $5 a month per share, $441.

This is a safe way to buy permanent and really dependable income, and it is a good way to form the saving habit and get 7% on your savings while doing it. We expect the remainder of the $3,000,000 issue of Milwaukee Electric shares will be sold out within the next two or three months. If you are interested, we shall be glad to have you come in and talk it over with us, or let us send a salesman or a Circular with full details. Mail orders filled by registered letter.

She Sings Jazz With Classics To Please Typical Americans

Some May Be Shocked, Think Eva Gauthier, But 90 Per Cent Of People Are Crazy About Jazz Music Of Today

New York — New York hasn't yet recovered from the shock it got recently when its musical highbrows assembled at Eva Gauthier's first concert this season.

All the staid critics and the conservative, the sophisticated and the artistic, were there in full force, to hear music as they believed it should be presented. As she appeared on the stage before them, they were prepared for the noble strains of a Schubert, or a Schumann.

They got that — and then the shock. Without an apology Miss Gauthier sang six honest-to-goodness home-brewed jazz songs.

When I asked her why she did it, she replied simply: "Because 90 per cent of the people of this country—and foreign countries, too—are crazy about jazz. It has something—something the intelligentsia won't define and the low-brows can't but something that gets right into you. And anything appealing to so large a percentage of people as jazz does, whether it is good or bad, deserves a place on a musical program as representative of one type of American music."

Naturally enough some of the audience were shocked beyond restoration, but most of them liked it—frankly liked it. It turned out to be a concert where everyone had a good time, laughed and went out whistling instead of looking bored. But I made some enemies. I can never win back."

Miss Gauthier also gave the feminine members of the audience a shock when she appeared in a perfectly straight black velvet gown, high in the neck with long sleeves. It was only when she left the stage one noticed it was cut low to the waist, line in the back.

"The gown was as carefully planned as the program," she told me. "I love color and gorgeous materials. Some programs call for them. But since I was very radical in my selection of songs this time, I wanted to call no attention to myself. I wanted to focus it all on my singing. When the songs were over I thought the audience had a right to a sartorial thrill, so they got it."

She did resent it, however, when the fashion writers spoke of her black gown.

SELF-MADE GOWN "Because Poiret had nothing to do with it," she insisted. "I made it myself. I make all my own clothes and my hats and sew for half my friends. I usually sew standing up because I don't take time to get comfortable."

Then we talked about careers. "Fannie Hurst was right about the two-break-a-week plan," she said. "I never shall believe that woman can combine perfectly conventional domesticity with careers. One or the other suffers every time."

"And it's particularly apt to suffer if you happen to be living in the jazz age," she concluded.

Colorful Dresses

Never were dresses prettier than those shown for school girls this season. They were in bright colored and in colored trimmings. They are made of the warmest and wooliest materials—and two of the new ones are sketched here to show you just how pretty they are.

The model with the pleated skirt is made of black tulle and the panel and bindings are of orange silk crepe. The handsome cocard at the waist is of pleated ribbon.

The second dress—made of brown wool-jersey—is cut peasant style, and has its collar, cuffs and pockets richly embroidered in the most brilliant of reds and blues.

Household Suggestions

HEAD DRESS Headresses are very fashionable now and are sure to be in evidence at the Christmas parties. For bobbed heads these are frequently made of silver flowers mounted on a silver ribbon. For the more dignified types are the more elaborate specimens such as the one sketched above made of silver cloth fitted over a foundation three or four inches wide, outlined with pearls or rhinestones or a combination of both.

STORED ONIONS Onions should be kept in a dry storeroom, for if they are stored in a damp place they will give out shoots too early.

TAKE NO RISKS Don't risk standing on tables and chairs to dust your walls. Have long-handled mops—they are much easier to operate, and much less hazardous.

SALT MEAT Do not salt meat except before roasting, as salt is apt to make the meat turn red.

KEEPING CAULIFLOWER Cauliflower and brussels sprouts will keep for a long time if they are stuck root down, in dry sand and kept in a dry place.

PAN ROAST Do not put water in the pan when you first put your roast in the oven; wait until it begins to brown a trifle.

UNUSED BROOM Always keep your broom standing upside down in the closet. The bristles will last much longer.

FISH ODORS Always keep salt fish, whether they are dry or in brine, well away from all other foods.

Noted Chef Tells How To Pick Good Turkey

Chicago — Before you can have the Thanksgiving turkey, you must select one — and there's where many a housewife finds herself at sea. For this reason someone who knows turkeys and other fowl, gives women helpful advice on choosing the bird for the coming feast. Such an authority is found in Peckey Swartz, cook for the epicurean appetites of a Cosen, national celebrities, and now training camp chef for Benny Leonard, lightweight fighting champion.

Chef Swartz tells here how to select the right turkey: "Look not merely for a fat turkey but a young and well conditioned one. You can tell an overfed turkey by the soft pudgy condition of the flesh. It simply melts away in the pan during roasting. But a finished turkey, fed on proper rations, has firm flesh. First grasp the flesh and assure yourself on that point.

SPURS AND GRISLE "Next see that the turkey's spurs, its claws, are short. Long spurs mean a tough turkey.

College Is One Remedy For Divorce

Woman Graduate May Balk On Word "Obey" But Means It When She Says "I Will"

Columbia, Mo. — The college girl may balk on the word "obey" in the marriage ceremony, but when she says "I will" she means it.

In other words, if all parents would send their daughters to college, the divorce lawyers would have to take in their shingles.

A college education as a panacea for the divorce evil is advocated by Mrs. Lucia W. St. Clair Moss, president emerita of Christian College, here, and the first woman to be nominated for congress from Missouri. She was defeated in the recent congressional campaign.

One reason the college girl seers clear of the divorce court, Mrs. Moss believes, is because her marriage is the result of deep affection rather than half-baked impulse.

"That is the kind of marriage that lasts," says Mrs. Moss. "A college girl has her sense of values developed. She usually is not guided so largely by her emotions and she isn't ready to jump into matrimony with every sheik-like Lothario who comes along."

A second reason why a college woman makes a lasting wife is because she has learned discipline, Mrs. Moss believes.

"Divorce," she says, "shows a lack of discipline. The contending parties have not learned how to co-operate or to put aside personal desires for their common good."

"The girl who goes to college and takes up her discipline seldom, if ever, gets into divorce court."

Mrs. Moss denies emphatically that college women are contributing to the country's quota of old maids.

"College girls are as much interested in marriage as are other girls," she says. "And my observations are based on contact with more than 5000 of them."

"College girls are not choosing between a home and a career—they are choosing both."

All the talk about the home going to pieces when the wife enters upon a career is stuff and nonsense, she remarks.

"I hold a girl is a better wife and mother who has proved herself capable of self-support and independence," she says.

"All sorts of data may be furnished to demonstrate that marriage is becoming an obsolete institution, but it continues to be and always will be the supreme factor in a woman's life—and in a man's, too, for that matter."

FASHION HINTS

HIP GATHERERS Slight gathers over the hips modify a straightline sports coat. It is fashioned in a soft rose shade of stag-moor cloth, collared and cuffed in racoon.

EVENING HUES The colors most in evidence on evening dresses are bottle green, Coolidge rust brown, Coolidge rust red and new blue. Of course, brown, black and navy are not overlooked.

DRESSY COATS Consumers are awaiting with interest an increased popularity in dressy coats for winter wear. Fur is lavishly used in trimming them, and some have the entire lower part of the skirt made of fur.

VELVET POPULAR Velvet for street, afternoon and evening wear is one of the most popular materials, report some manufacturers. Twill and charmeuse street dresses are also in great demand, with brocade materials for formal occasions.

SIDE GODETS When Gabrielle Chanel, Parisian designer, uses the circular movement on coats he does it with side godets, which are usually of fur. A gold tissue coat, embroidered all over with a Parisian design has this effect.

HOW TO ROAST "In roasting the turkey, aim to avoid drying it out. Rub the entire surface with salt and brush with soft butter. Place it in a hot oven.

"When it is well browned, reduce the heat and make a basting mixture of half a cup of butter melted in one cup boiling water. Keep basting every ten or fifteen minutes during cooking. Turn the fowl over two or three times so it may brown evenly.

"A ten-pound turkey will roast in about three hours."

Assume Erect Pose For Ease On Ballroom Floor

BY ARTHUR MURRAY Director, National Institute of Social Dancing

Stand erect. Be natural as well as comfortable, and not too close to your partner, yet not too far away. At all times, move easily and smoothly. The lady rests her left hand lightly at the back of the man's shoulder. Her right hand extended to the side. The arm is not held stiffly, but is bent to form a graceful curve.

The man holds his arms fairly high. Hold your partner firmly, especially with the right arm and hand. Let the lady feel the pressure of your hand at her back under the shoulder blade, above the waist line. The lady has more confidence in you if you hold firmly. The left arm is bent at the elbow, the hand resting on the man's chest.

Do not curl your arm under that of your partner. Fancy holds are out of date. To look well while dancing, make yourself tall; hold your head up high, chin in, chest out. Dance as though your body were floating through the air. Keep your body off the floor as much as possible. Keep your legs close together; do not spread them apart.

Hold your partner directly in front of you, and not to one side. When you walk forward, step directly toward your partner as though you were trying to step on your partner's feet. Do not try to avoid your partner's feet when going forward.

TO AVOID STIFFNESS So-called stiffness is of two kinds. People are often referred to as "stiff" because their muscles are tense. Have you ever driven an automobile? If so, you remember that when you first learned to shift gears you would stiffen up, your muscles would become taut, and you could almost feel yourself in a nervous condition. It is the same with dancers when they first start out to dance.

Because the beginner is not yet sure of himself, his muscles stiffen up. By practice, this stiffness will pass away and when the dancer knows the steps, ease and grace will come.

PRACTICE STEPS The second kind of stiffness is the result of inexperience. The person who does not know the steps and has not trained the muscles of his feet to dance with ease—feels anything but "easy" when he dances. A person's body is stiff until they are loosened up by the proper training. The ballet dancer, even the one who dances as light as a fairy, is stiff when she attempts ballroom dancing if she is not thoroughly familiar with the newest ballroom steps. Each step brings into play different muscles. To become rid of stiffness, one has but to learn to dance the steps and when proficient, ease will take the place of stiffness.

Ballroom Conduct is discussed by Mr. Murray in his next article.

GARNISHES

When you serve a salad or dessert do you think how attractive to look at you can make it as well as how good to eat?

And when you must use up leftover meats in croquettes or creamed on toast do you ever think that a tiny sprig of parsley dropped here and there on the platter lifts the dish several notches higher in the estimation of the family?

There are so many simple garnishes that are inexpensive and require no special tools that it seems a pity the average housewife overlooks the possibilities at her hand.

Cold roast or broiled meat, thinly sliced and arranged neatly on a platter in an overlapping fashion, is twice as appealing as if carelessly served.

Just a sprinkling of paprika on the last thing before sending a platter of cream-dried beef on toast to the table adds an intriguing touch to an everyday standby.

HARD-BOILED EGGS Hard-boiled eggs are an effective garnish. They are cut in rings across the egg or lengthwise. The white then makes petal-shaped sections and the yolk is sliced to form the center of the daisy. Can't you imagine a mound of dark green spinach with one of these posies in the center, and a ring of fluffy rice surrounding the base of the mound?

With the vegetable cutters and pastry tubes now on the market all sorts of marvelous things are done. Mashed potatoes blossom into roses with hearts of creamed carrots. Turnips are cut in marbles and piled in little mounds before the sauce is poured over them. Or potatoes cut with the same vegetable cutter are parboiled in salted water, drained and sautéed in bacon fat or butter to a delicious brown and served as a garnish for a steak.

Maraschino cherries are cut in quarters and used quite as effectively as a whole cherry for garnishing desserts.

Just a sprinkling of paprika on the last thing before sending a platter of green ribbons are lovely worked into

Leftovers A leftover vegetable salad molded in jelly or simply mounded on a bed of lettuce shreds, masked with red, low mayonnaise and "trimmed" with threads of scarlet pimento, thin slices of olives, tiny diamonds of pickled beets can be evolved in the home kitchen.

Mere threads of canned pimento through a cabbage salad or any vegetable or meat salad masked with mayonnaise add much to the dish.

Head lettuce is high, but if the outside leaves are cut in "ribbons" and used as a salad garnish there is no waste to the head. These thin green ribbons are lovely worked into

The Sturdy New Jewett Six Has the Power of $1200-$1500 Cars

THE new Jewett's 50 horse-power Paige-built motor has 249 cubic inches piston displacement. This is 20% more displacement—which means more power—than any car of Jewett's size, or within $200 of Jewett's price. And it is long-lived, smooth power. High-pressure oiling system forces 2 gallons of oil per minute through all main and connecting rod bearings. Friction is reduced to nil. Wear and noise are far distant indeed.

Try the new Jewett out against any car you choose. Jewett will accelerate from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds, in high gear. It will beat the time of most any car up any hill. No other car holds so many hill-climbing records as the Jewett.

Do not look for the equal of Jewett power in any "light" six. Likewise, do not look for equal of Jewett ruggedness and dependability in a "light" six. A "light" six is a car weighing from 200 to 400 pounds less than Jewett, with a light, small-bore, low-power motor. A Jewett Six is a strong, heavily built rugged automobile—it is the equal in the essentials of satisfaction to cars costing as high as $1500.

Let us show you what satisfaction you get out of driving a really powerful car—when it has the weight and strength to give you comfortable riding and lasting fine performance. Call us any time for your demonstration.
